Dear Family,

We have now concluded with the Blessed season of the coming of Our Lord in our lives. We now continue our lives as does Jesus in growing in our faith with Him. As we hear in the readings this weekend from St Paul, we are reminded that our bodies are members of Christ's family and temples of the Holy Spirit. Through our Baptisms, we are joined to God both body and soul and become members of His body, the Church.

In our reflections, let us remember that it is Jesus who gave us all we need in order to remain close to Him. Therefore, as we continue our journey, let us be more conscious in our desire to live out these prescribed methods given us to live in relationship with our heavenly Father.

So, as we continue this year, let us be more fervent in our ability to listen to Our Lord, as He gives us the directions we need to follow, to lessen the dangers that are put in front of us and spend more time in prayer with Our Savior. Have a blessed year.

Deacon Joe
